THREE CENTURIES REGISTERED IN THE TEST MATCH AT LORD'S LARGER BRITISH NAVY BEING PROPOSED?

U.S. DELEGATE INFORMS STATE DEPARTMENT

NEW MOVE CAUSES SURPRISE IN AMERICAN CIRCLES

THE EFFECT ON JAPAN

New York, Yesterday.

The United States delegate to Geneva, Mr. Norman Davis, has informed the State Department that Great Britain is proposing to build a larger navy, according to the Washington correspondent of the "New York Times."

The proposals are being considered on the understanding that they are merely exploratory suggestions, according to the Secretary of State, Mr. William C. Bullitt.

The correspondent adds that the State Department was surprised to receive concrete suggestions thus early in the conversations. The expectation has been that nothing definite would develop in London for weeks or even months.

THERE IS AN IMPRESSION OF DISAPPOINTMENT OVER THE MOVE LEST BRITAIN, BY SETTING FORTH THE NEEDS FOR A LARGER NAVY, SHOULD ENCOURAGE JAPAN TO ASK FOR A STRONGER FLEET.

It is regarded as rather remote that it would work the other way and discourage Japan because of the cost of asking for naval parity.—Reuter.

ANGLO-GERMAN DEBT TALKS

Delegates Expected In London Tomorrow

PESSIMISTIC FORECAST

Berlin, Yesterday.

Germany has agreed to the British offer to negotiate her debts, and it is expected that she will send negotiators to London by air on Monday, though it is foreshadowed that she is not likely to offer immediate concessions.—Reuter.

Germany's move follows Britain's threat to establish a clearing office unless an agreement regarding the transfers of the Dawes and Young Loans is reached by July 1.

FRANCE TAKES STEPS

Paris, Yesterday.

The French Government has drafted measures for recovering the interest on the Dawes and Young Loans which it intends to enforce if no agreement is reached with Germany by July 1 for the continuance of the transfers.—Reuter.

CHILDREN ASSAULT IDENTIFIED

Visitor Responsible For Nullah Outrage.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

The man, who is fit of insanity, threw five European children into the nullah by the Peak Tramway terminus on Friday, was identified yesterday afternoon as Ng Lai Hing, 20-year-old visitor to Hong Kong.

He was found to be staying at the Swatow Company in Pedder Street, but is now an inmate of the detention ward at the Government Civil Hospital.

The latest medical report states that his mind is still unshaken and that he did not fracture his skull, but that he fractured his thigh bone and injured his knees.

The five victims of the outrage were:

Michael Pine, aged 8, who died in hospital;

Mary Pine, aged 8, his twin sister;

Norman Stone, aged 7;

Tony Flood, aged 5; and

(The funeral of little Michael Pine, which took place yesterday afternoon, is reported on Page 9.)

TORIES RETAIN TWICKENHAM

Increased Majority At By-Election.

London, Yesterday.

The Conservative Party yesterday retained the Twickenham Parliamentary seat by 5,505 votes as against 4,807 votes at the last general election.

The Foreign Minister, Mr. Koki Hirota, has told the Cabinet that Japan will oppose holding the Conference at Geneva.

It is reported that Japan is not so opposed to Russia's participation in the conference as hitherto, and is willing to discuss the question of the Soviet's presence.

Also, Germany's and Spain's inclusion will be discussed from a European standpoint.—Reuter.

LANDSLIDES ON ISLAND.

Shek O Residents Isolated.

Three island landslides, caused by the recent heavy rains, had not been cleared up late last night.

Shek O residents are cut off from town by slides on the Shaukiwan hill, between Stanley and Taltan, and at Shek O.

Women were given the work of clearing the debris from the roadway, but they have made very slow progress.

AUSTRALIA DO WELL

REPLY WITH 192 FOR 2 TO ENGLAND'S 440

LEYLAND AND AMES SCORE CENTURIES.

BRADMAN FAILS BUT BROWN HOLDS THE FORT

London, Yesterday.

Three centuries were scored during to-day's play in the second Test match at Lord's, in which Australia wound up the day 248 runs in arrears with 8 wickets in hand.

Leyland and Ames, who both batted centuries, added 129 for England's sixth wicket to enable the side to total 440, of which total 147 were scored to-day for the loss of five wickets.

Though Woodfull left at 68 and Don Bradman failed again, the Australians were in a very sound position at the close of play, W. A. Brown having recorded his first Test century after three hours at the crease.

Sport Shorts In The Fashion Perfect Table Exhibition

Tailored Grey Flannel.

THE best dress show in London recently was held in broad sunshine one evening to show the newest of Spectator Sports wear. These included the new sport shorts which have replaced long trousers for holidays.

The shorts were mostly of tailored grey flannel or natural linen, and the blouses were of checked and plaid milanese silk.

Red and blue designs on pale grey were the favourite colour schemes, with pale grey linen jackets woven with blue crosses.

NO SWEETS FOR CHILDREN

NEVER give babies sweets, pastry, cheese, salt or fried fish, or tea. Children should only be given sweets directly after meals.

Latest Paris Style In Hats

The Sexangle Hat Brim.

THERE are few exceptions to brimmed hats in the latest collections, says our Paris fashion expert. They may be wide and round, with short, shallow, or Mandarin crowns. When the latter occur brims invariably turn up at the edge.

The simple square has developed into a sexangle brim. Hats worn with linen crash morning suits usually have lesser brims and slightly higher crowns trimmed with a band of material to match a blouse. One example in plain linen crash points to the morning suit in the same fabric worn with the Chinese red and white spotted Chine model.

A BRAN BATH FOR DRIED SKIN

A BRAN bath is beneficial when the skin has been dried and hardened by exposure to wind and salt water. Add 64 ounces of wheaten bran to 30 gallons of water.

VITAMINS FOR HEALTH

VITAMINS in diet are all important. Vitamins A and D are in fats—butter and cream; B in the germ of wheat, egg-yolk, milk, liver, kidney, and green vegetables; C in fresh fruit.

A New Idea In Sandals.

A NEW sandal is one which throws a new light on the big toe.

The part which should cover the toe is cut away, showing a flash of colour—if the toe-nails are lacquered to match the finger-nails.

One London shop displays these Jon sandals in various plain and striped materials.

TREATMENT FOR MOLES

MOLLES on the face should be removed by a specialist. To remove a mole on the body apply a solution of hydrogen peroxide for five minutes morning and evening. Any resulting irritation should be treated with lanolin.

BLACKCURRANT TEA FOR COLDS

BLACKCURRANT tea is good for colds and sore throats. Pour boiling water on the ripe fresh berries, first bruised. In winter use blackcurrant jam.

A RAINPROOF HANDBAG

Some important newcomers for the summer wardrobe. Include the tweed rainproof handbag—a huge thing in natural colour or pure white.

The handle is in the shape of two initials made of white bone.

Perfect Table Exhibition

Designs By Society Hostess.

EXHIBITION of linen and china, which is called the forty-eight perfect tables was recently held in London.

Each table has been designed by a famous society hostess.

An all-pink tea table with a pink cloth and china which was specially made to match the colour. The small plates were octagonal shaped and the design was of tiny white flower heads.

Included in this exhibition was a replica of Queen Victoria's white damask breakfast cloth.

RED SANDALS

ROMAN sandals in bright red leather are being worn with these beach fashions—the red strings crossing up the leg almost to the knee. In one case the jumper had matching red stripes.

Herb Teas For Better Health.

HERB teas are again in favour. Place curative herbs in a teapot and pour in boiling water. Leave for fifteen off and drink either hot or cold. Dandelion tea is good for biliousness.

SOUTH CHINA BEAT PHOENIX AT FOOTBALL

Naval Goalkeeper's Lapse.

CHINESE SHOW GOOD UNDERSTANDING AND DESERVE TO WIN

A large crowd saw South China "B" defeat a team from H.M.S. Phoenix by two goals to nil in a friendly soccer match on the South China Athletic Association's ground, Caroline Hill, yesterday.

Handicapped by the absence of three of their best players, McNeill, Newman and King, who were injured in their last game with the same Chinese team, the Phoenix did well to ward off a bigger defeat.

Leech, though he had the misfortune to give South China a gift goal, played well between the sticks, while Nicholson, Morgan and West played good football.

South China fielded a strong team, good combination and accurate long range shots being the feature of their play. South China's goal was scored by Tay Kwee-liang in the first half.

South China: Wong Wah-ki; Chung Kai-lam, Wong Chung-pak; Yau Wah-hing, Tong Kun, George Young; Tay Kwee-liang, Lal Shiu-wing, George Tsang, Cheuk Shek-kun and Li Shek-yau.

CHAMPIONS SUFFER FIRST DEFEAT

A scene on the C.S.C.C. green yesterday

TAIKOO BEAT KOWLOON IN DOCKS ENCOUNTER

INDIANS RETAIN LEADERSHIP OF JUNIOR DIVISION

K.C.C. SURPRISE YACHT CLUB

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club, 1933 champions and present leaders of the Senior Division, suffered their first defeat this season when they went down to the Craigengower Cricket Club "A" at Happy Valley by a margin of 13 shots yesterday.

The C.C.C. "B" gained a narrow victory over the K.C.C. at Kowloon, while the Taikoo Docks, entertaining their Kowloon colleagues, secured the two points by a comfortable margin.

The Indian R. C. continued in winning vein to defeat the Electricians and retain their junior division leadership, while the Police consolidated their position as runners-up by defeating their neighbours, the Civil Servants. The K.C.C. provided the surprise by trouncing the Yachtmen on their own green by 57 shots to 51, indicating a return to their true form after a poor start early in the season.

Craigengower have lost two of their eight matches and are 140 shots up in the league table. They have lost to their "B" team and the Club de Recreio this season.

TO OUR POLICYHOLDERS,

Of the 392 legal-reserve life insurance Companies in the U.S.A. and Canada that are listed by "Best's", the foremost life insurance rating-manual, 93 are rated "A." ("Best's" rating, as explained by themselves, is "from the policyholders' viewpoint — not the stockholder or yet the agents." The fact that a Company is rated below "A" does not mean, necessarily, that it is not a good Company, or that its policyholders' security is, in any sense, impaired; it means only that "Best's" consider the policyholders' security and investment advantages lesser in such a Company than in the Company of class "A".)

Among the 93 "A" Companies, only 3 of them — 1 Canadian and 2 American — increased in 1932 in all respects, — insurance in force, new insurance effected, assets, and surplus, — over 1931. Your Company was among the select 3 of the highest ranking 3.

Not more than 3 grade "A" Companies out of the total of 392 listed Companies increased in 1932 and 1933. Of this possible total of 3, thus far we know of only 1 Company which increased annually in all respects during these two years, — that Company which again surpassed, in 1932, the new insurance issued, insurance in force, assets, and surplus of the preceding year, is your Company, the CROWN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

TWO BRIDGE DEALS IDENTICALStrange Coincidence In London Match.*SAME HANDS FOR SAME PLAYERS

London. By an amazing card freak two consecutive hands of bridge identical in every way were dealt at a London club.

The occurrence is vouched for by Mr. Roland A. Harper, secretary of the club. He writes:

"During a Duplicate Contract Bridge match between the Alford Club and the Forest Hill Country Club, at table No. 1, where Mrs. Spicer and Mr. R. A. Harper, of the Alford Club, were opposed to Messrs. P. R. Bolton and H. J. Belshaw, of the Forest Hill Country Club, two consecutive hands were dealt, absolutely identical, to the same four players."

"The two packs were both shuffled out and dealt in turn by South and West."

"Although all four players recognised that they had the same hand again they were of course, not aware that the other three had also. Bidding and play continued and no comment was made until the hand was completed." — Reuter.

PAPAL SUNDAY.Feast Celebrated Every Year.

To-day the Catholics of Hong Kong will celebrate Papal Day.

This Feast is celebrated each year all over the Catholic world; it is a day which is set aside as a mark of respect and reverence for the Holy Father the Pope, Plus XI, who now fills the Chair of Peter, and is the successor to him to whom the charge was given — "Feed My sheep."

Why Dillinger Is At Large.

How He Escapes.

These reasons may help to illuminate what is most baffling to English people—the mystery of how he escapes.

But in more detailed explanation of the agent's failure to get their man when he is cornered it must be stated that some of Dillinger's personal and armed scouts are never at his side. They keep at a cautious distance of anything up to a mile away.

When he enters a building they watch it and every approach to it.

The Federal agents never know in which direction the next bullet aimed against them will come.

$2.80 TO CAST OUT DEVILSBlind Man's Temple A Nuisance.*WEIRD COURT SCENE

That she paid $2.80 for worshipping the gods in the hope that she might have the devil cast out of her body, was the evidence given by Chung Ying, a licensed hawker, at the Central Magistracy before Mr. E. W. Hamilton yesterday morning, in the case in which Chan Chi-yan, a blind man, was summoned for unlawfully taking part in the maintenance, or in the management, or in the service of a Chinese temple which is established contrary to the provision of Chinese Temple Ordinance No. 1, of 1928, at No. 21 Western Street, second floor, on June 16.

Chung Ying stated that she met accused the day before in the street and asked him to tell her fortune. He told her that she was possessed by devils and advised her to worship in a temple. She replied that she did not know how to worship, and accused urged her to go to his place, No. 21 Western Street. The sum of $3 was asked, for which she bargained down to $2.80.

Inspector K. W. Andrew said last Wednesday, that he was instructed by the S.C.A. to bring the case to Court, and that the temple was established contrary to the provision of the Chinese Temple Ordinance in that the temple in this case was not registered.

Mr. R. R. Todd, chief assistant Secretariat of Chinese Affairs, said yesterday morning, that the summons was served due to complaints received from people in the neighbourhood and that defendant had become a regular nuisance by the noise of gongs and drums which accompanied his rituals.

A regular temple, consisting of all the paraphernalia, including 19 gods and goddesses, foodstuffs, tablets, joss sticks and paper, a paper horse and tortoise shells, were set up in court during the hearings.

In binding the defendant over in the sum of $100 to come up for judgment in six months, Mr. Hamilton said that he quite appreciated the fact that he was blind. The maximum fine for an unregistered temple is $600.

Their shooting is unsteady as a result.

In the gangster world it is believed that Dillinger, by a round-about route, is making for Ozarks, Missouri. The country is wild, mountainous—the Corsica of the United States. If there are no ordinary means of transport or communication. The people are reputed to live outside the law.

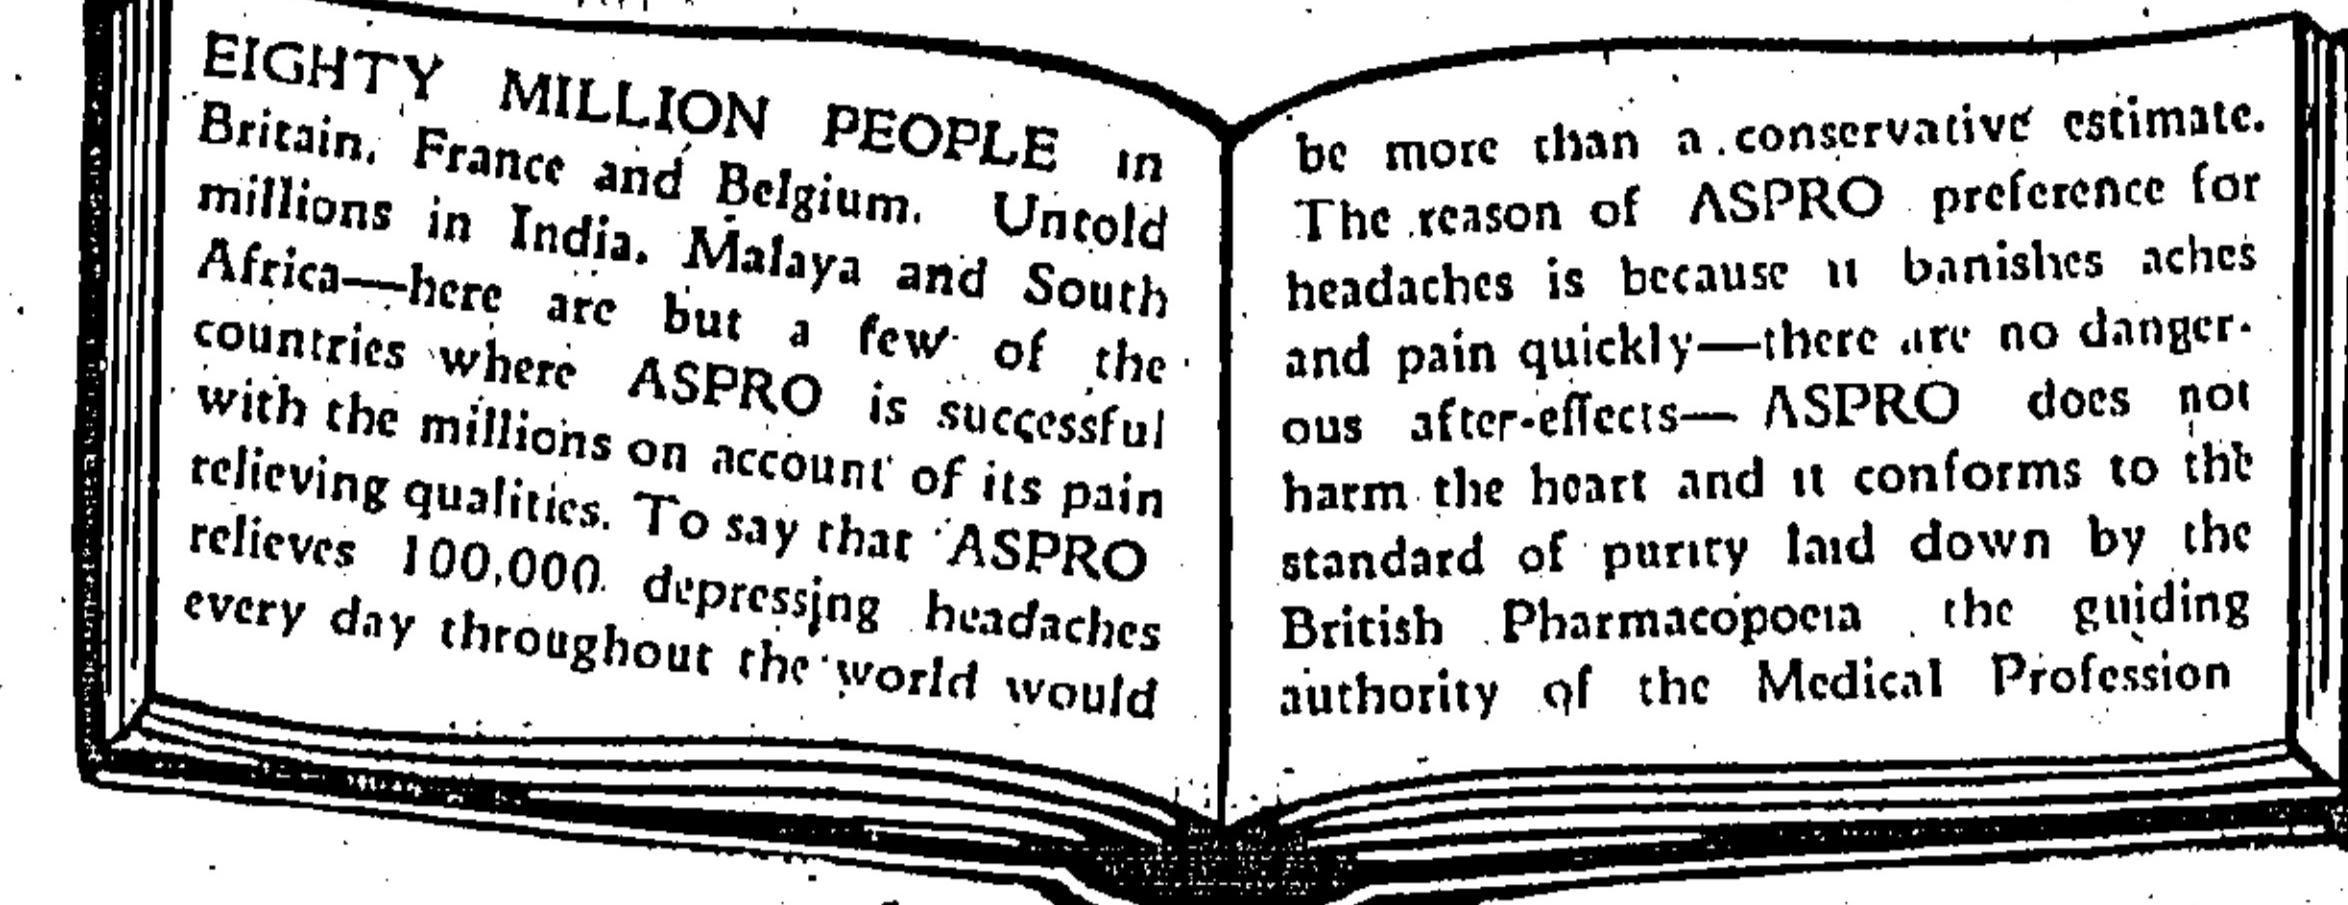

In any case law in the United States is not what it is here; it is a good country for any man on the run.

SIR CECIL CLEMENTI
STRAITS GOVERNOR RESIGNS.

Education Policy Disapproved.

London, June 15. It is alleged that Sir Cecil Clementi's resignation from the post of Governor of the Straits Settlements and High Commissioner for the Malay States is not unconnected with the Colonial Office's severe disapproval of his educational policy.

Sir Shenton Thomas K.C.M.G., O.B.E., his successor from the Gold Coast, is described by mutual friend as "a strong man of the Colonial Service, with sturdy common sense and no frills; a good mixer, with innate dignity, and ability to see both sides of a question and most likely to prove a very popular Governor and High Commissioner."

Sir Cecil Clementi, G.C.M.G., K.C.M.G., F.R.G.S., LL.D., M.A., who was Governor of Hong Kong from 1925 to 1929, caused the greatest controversy in recent years by his resuscitation of the proposals to introduce a greater measure of decentralisation in the Malay States.

"PRINTING MATTER" AT G.P.O.

Embroidery Inside Newspaper.

MAN'S RUSE TO SECURE REDUCED RATES

Lo King-yeo, a 49-year-old unemployed, appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for attempting to defraud the post office revenue by marking postal packet "printing matter," thereby seeking to obtain reduced rates, and for defrauding the post office of the difference between a postal packet and printed matter, on June 21 and 22.

Mr. T. Hynes, Superintendent of Mails at the G.P.O., said that during the past weeks there were quite a number of similar packets mailed through the post office. The case did not come to the attendance of the officials, until last Thursday, when an Indian clerk became suspicious of the "printing matter." The clerk opened one of them and found that inside the newspapers were embroidered work. Mr. Hynes opened another and found some singlets.

The next day, accused came to the post office with five more packets and was sent up to see Mr. Hynes. The packets were all addressed to Samshui. Defendant said that he was sending them for another man, who only came to Hong Kong once a week. Accused was remanded in Police custody until Tuesday.

MAN PAYS FOR HIS EMPLOYMENT.

Imaginary Job In Gaol.

In Hin-ki, alias Chan Wai-man, 25 years, was brought before Mr. Q. A. MacPherson at the Central Police Court yesterday morning, and charged with obtaining by false pretences with intent to defraud Chan Yin-leung of the total sum of $7.

Inspector J. Murphy stated that defendant told complainant that he was a printer at the Victoria Gaol, and that he would secure for him a job at the gaol as a tailor for $20. He reduced his fee down to $1.45, which he charged for writing a letter to a friend of his in the gaol, with a view to securing the job. He later extracted $5.55 from the complainant.

Accused was remanded until Tuesday for hearing.

COLONY'S PLACE IN AVIATION BRITISH ENTERPRISE NOT LAGGING LOCAL ADVOCATES' VIEWS

LAST week an article by A. M. Crawley was published in the "Sunday Herald," advocating British progress in aviation in the Far East with Hong Kong as the key to the route. He bemoaned the shortsightedness of the Englishman, whom he charged with gazing at the map, instead of achieving something to stop America's challenge for the Colony's mails.

This week Sir William Shenton and Major E. B. Brasier Creagh, two prominent advocates of linking the Colony with the world's airways, have given their views on the situation in the forms of interviews.

Sir William Shenton

Major Brasier Creagh

"With regard to a matter like aviation in a small Colony like Hong Kong, there is always a tendency, and rightly so, to leave the matter more or less to the Government at Home. The Home Government, after all, have all the political machinery to enter into negotiations with foreign Governments to obtain concessions to pass through territory," said Major E. B. Brasier Creagh when interviewed by the Sunday Herald on the subject of Hong Kong as an air port.

Ever since arriving in the Colony in 1931 Major Brasier Creagh has shown considerable interest in aviation, and the possibilities of linking Hong Kong with other airways, with the purpose of securing a through service to Europe.

CHINESE PERMISSION

"The difficulty has always been, and will be for the time being, the question of obtaining permission to fly over Chinese territory. Sir William pointed out that a route mapped to avoid infringing China's territorial integrity would involve a much greater mileage, and with the weather vagaries such as existed on the China Coast, such a route was entirely impracticable, despite the efficiency of present day aircraft. He said that the question of extending the Croydon-Bangkok air route to Hong Kong was largely in the hands of Imperial Airways. Much, he added, had been done to further the matter, but until China could see her way to come into line no satisfactory result could be reached.

Sir William added that the Imperial Airways had had two very big Empire problems to deal with, the Cape to Cairo line and the Singapore to Australia line. In concluding, he strongly opposed the statements that British enterprise was lagging and allowing foreign interests to get in ahead in handling local air mails, and pointed out that Hong Kong was a vast centre of shipping, and therefore, sooner or later, would assume a vast importance in commercial aviation.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES.—No. 110.

Summer Flowers.

Some of the most attractive of the Colony's flowers will shortly be coming into bloom. They include a lily and three ground orchids. The lily is Lilium Brownii var. colchicifera and is found throughout the whole of China. On our hillsides it grows from two to five feet in height and usually bears two flowers though we have seen as many as four. Localities for this lily are Victoria Peak, High West, above the Tai Tam reservoirs, etc. The plant is strictly protected by law for the following reasons, wanton gathering of blooms and plants would soon result in complete extermination. The bulbs are eaten by the Chinese and if their collection was not prohibited the lily would soon disappear from the local hillsides. Since 1915 when Government protection commenced the lily has increased considerably on Hong Kong Island, this has been particularly noticeable of recent years.

The flowers measure seven inches in length and are of two colour types. The first is white throughout but in the second the three outer perianth segments are marked with purple-bronze on the outside. The ripe anther lobes appear orange or red on account of the red colour of the pollen grains. The bulbs may be purchased in the market under the name of Hah Hop, they are imported from northern Kwangtung. This lily can be grown from seed quite easily though of course the plants will not flower for about

MAJOR BRASIER CREAGH.

"There has never been a shortage of people in Hong Kong willing to provide an air service, but the position has always, as at present, been hampered by the refusal of the Chinese Government for permission to fly over their territory.

An interesting point is the number of volunteers who are at present receiving aerial training in the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps. There are always plenty of recruits to take the places of those who are passed out, or who resign.

"It seems to me very likely that when, as it is eventually hoped, Hong Kong is linked up with the Imperial Airways Service at Bangkok, that the contract is now more than likely to go to Imperial Airways," he said.

COLONY'S FLYING HISTORY.

As a point of general interest the Major gave a brief history of the flying movement in Hong Kong.

"It was about 14 years ago when a locally managed concern ran an airway to Macao," he said. "They used old wartime machines, which were expensive to run, and too large for the service, and after a short period of operation the service was abandoned and the company wound up."

"About three years later, Capt. Vaughan-Fowler came out from Home, having just left the services of the Imperial Airways. He came out with the purpose of selling machines to China, and to start an airway. The proposition of the airway fell through owing to the lack of connections in other countries. This was all before the Imperial Airways and the Dutch and French airways were operating in the Far East."

"Capt. Vaughan-Fowler, however, started a Flying Club, which commenced operations some time in 1929 or 1930. In about 1932 several people tried further schemes for an airline to Bangkok, but permission was not forthcoming from China to fly over her territory, and, although the Hong Kong Government showed their interest by offering a handsome subsidy, the lack of permission from China proved fatal to the scheme.

In the meantime, Imperial Airways had been pushing out into the Far East, and there seemed to be a great opportunity for a local line to link up with their service, but the same difficulty with China over, will benefit China.

PRETTY KOWLOON WEDDING.

Australian Girl Who Was Delayed By Changte.

MARTIN—MUSKETT

St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Mavis Gertrude Martin, of Australia, was married to Mr. William Hubert Bertram Muskett, of the Hong Kong Electric Company.

The bride, who arrived recently from Sydney on the s.s. Changte, is the oldest daughter of the late Mr. W. G. and Mrs. Martin, of Bondi, Sydney, and late of the Philippine Islands. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Muskett of Aberdeen, Scotland.

The Rev. J. R. Ellice officiated. The bride, looking charming in her wedding gown of ivory satin cut on classic lines, designed by "Revue" of Sydney, and carrying a bouquet of tangerine gladioli, was given away by Mr. R. Way, of the Hong Kong Electric.

The attending bridesmaids were Misses Isabella Postonjee, Anna Buchanan, Jean Ewing and Laureen Clemo, who wore silver lame and eau-de-nile tulle and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

The duties of best man were performed by Mr. H. S. Jones, while the Matron of Honour was Mrs. J. R. Sulter.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at No. 264, Prince Edward Road, to which over 100 guests were invited.

The honeymoon is being spent in Canton.

MR. W. H. AUSTIN PASSES

Trade Commissioner Works Too Hard.

HONG KONG VISIT IN JANUARY

It will come as a shock to those who met him when he visited Hong Kong last January on a Trade Mission, to learn of the sudden death, on May 27, of Mr. W. H. Austin, Commissioner for Trade and Under-Secretary, Department of Labour and Industry, Queensland, Australia.

Mr. Austin had not long returned from his Far Eastern Mission, and it is reported that over-work was mainly the cause of his death.

The Acting Premier of Queensland, Mr. Pease, stated "I am satisfied that work and worry over the relief of unemployment—sheer devotion to duty—brought about Mr. Austin's untimely death. I wish to pay a sincere tribute to Mr. Austin's great work and splendid character."

It was stated that Mr. Austin's judgment in Departmental matters was always respected by the State Cabinet. His breakdown in health was primarily caused by the untrained service that he gave to that Department for a long term of years. He was a man possessed of more than usual vision and imagination, and his untimely death was a great loss to the Department. He would be missed in connection with the colossal relief schemes with which he was personally associated during the last few years.

ARMED ROBBERY AT WOOD ROAD.

One Of Three Arrested Discharged.

Charged with the armed robbery at No. 8 Wood Road, on June 1, Wong Taling, unemployed, Lo Sun-cheung, a fortune teller, and Lo Hol-tong, unemployed, were brought before Mr. Q. A. A. MacFadyen at the Central Police Court yesterday morning, on a rehearing. On the application of Sergeant Fitches, the charge against Lo Hol-tong was withdrawn. The others were remanded until Tuesday for hearing.

Major Brasier Creagh is of the opinion that, eventually, this permission will be granted. Britain is not asking for a large concession, and the emergency grounds, which will have to be laid out for the 450 miles of coast to be flown over, will benefit China.

In the meantime, Imperial Air-

RABIES is one of the most horrible misfortunes that can befall any human being. Anyone who has ever seen a case in the advanced stages will do anything he can to assist the police in enforcing any regulations there may be. But one may be allowed to have a regretful sigh over the wasted morning following upon the publication of a careful and very detailed description of symptoms. The trouble began when the telephone went at the most critical moment of the shaving operation. "Have you read the morning paper?" "No, not yet." "Well do come and have a look at Spot, he's got it." Then at breakfast another ring. "Do you think 'Blacky' has it?" You know this morning he was quite unnaturally restless. Instead of coming to be patted as he usually does, ran out as soon as the door was opened. Will you come and have a look at him?" Then came the neighbour, in person. "You know 'Fido' this morning not only drank up all his own water, but went and finished the cat's milk as well. Do you think I should take him to the vet?"

In fact, before I escaped to pursue my ordinary avocation, I had come to the conclusion that we all had it, and the only safe course would be to call in the police to conduct a general batte.

After the burial service had been read by the Rev. N. V. Halford, M.C., M. G. Pine, the boy's father, took a handkerchief containing toy soldiers, the favourite playthings of the little child, and placed these on the coffin. Mrs. Pine, was also present at the graveside.

Many Mourners

A large number of friends followed the hearse to the Cemetery gates, from whence the coffin was carried to the graveside by four Master Gunnerys of the Royal Artillery, M. Gnr. Wardle, M. Gnr. Sharp, M. Gnr. Timms and M. Gnr. Longman.

Others present were, Mr. and Mrs. Medina, Captain P. S. Cannon, A.E.C.; Captain E. Hague, R. A. and Mrs. Hague; M. Gnr. Manley; S/Sgt. and Mrs. Henderson; C.Q.M.S. and Mrs. Derry; Capt. Optimism Is Life's Ruling Factor

Cheerfulness Essential To Happiness

Danger Of Unfit Minds

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by the local Army chaplain.)

I WAS standing, some years ago, on the Station platform at Cambridge, waiting for the London train, when a man dashed up to a penny-in-the-slot machine near by, and put a coin in to the slot, hoping to get out a box of matches. Unfortunately the coin stuck, and when at last he forced it in, nothing happened. "Blow and bust," I heard him say, "it's the only coin I have and it won't work the wretched thing." (Those were not the exact words, but they are near enough for my purpose).

With amazing generosity I produced a penny for him, he got his matches and we got into the train together. The reason the penny would not work would have been obvious, if he had looked at the notice displayed immediately above the machine. It read as follows: "Bent and battered coins will not work this machine."

I have often thought about that incident, and I pass it on to you this morning as the subject for this hundredth article I have had the honour and pleasure to write for this paper, because it is so extraordinarily true to life. A bent and battered spirit will not work the machine of life, a bent and battered mind is not good either, and a bent and battered soul is the worst of all.

We came into this world as finished articles in miniature. Through the years of childhood, in school and on the fields of sport; our bodies were developed; until we reached maturity. There is no time this morning to discuss the condition of those who are born unfit for the fight of life; those who are born blind or deformed or feeble minded. Our hearts go out to them in sympathy, and we can only leave them in the hands of God our Father; remembering that many of those so afflicted have lived lives of wonderful usefulness for their fellow-men despite their infirmities.

Bright Spirit Important Surely it is one of the greatest arguments for another life beyond the grave where these inequalities will be remedied; and those who have never known all the joy of life as we know it, will find a happiness that is eternal. Let us think of ourselves; who in body at least are fit and well. It takes almighty God twenty-one years to make a man, and yet we can undo God's handiwork in one split second, or by the slower but equally sure method of self-neglect, or carelessness.

What about these spirits of ours? So much depends upon them. The man who is always looking on the dark side; or nursing a grievance is precious little use to anyone. You remember in the War the greatest consideration in the minds of the High Command was how to keep up the spirits of the Troops. No effort was spared in this direction. It starts in the

Like A Camera Film The mind is like a film in a camera. It registers every fleeting word, and deed and impression, and the hardest thing in the world is how to forget the only way to fight against sins of the mind is always to think of beauty Goodness is only beauty in morals. Truth is only beauty in knowledge. If as a great pessimistic Hedonist of the last century put it, "every sin in the world takes place in the mind," we can also remember that every deed of kindness, and every striving after holiness, takes place there too.

Last of all the soul. Is that bent and battered? We can hide our real selves from our fellow-men for a time at least, but what do they look like in the sight of God? The day is coming when our souls will be the only things that are left us. If we have made them poor and shoddy during the years in which they were ours to develop, then we only have ourselves to blame.

There comes a time in the life of a coin when it has to be scrapped, and withdrawn from circulation. Thank God that need never happen to us. There is always the wonderful, compelling dynamic power of the love of Christ to remake us what we can and ought to be.

Let us then take another look at life this morning, with all its possibilities let us live a little less for self and more for others, let us learn to have a more cheery smile, and a more hopeful spirit, and we shall find that the world that looks so dark and gloomy, is really full of gladness and sunshine.

The students were prepared by Mr. J. E. Law of the Shorthand and Commercial Bureau.

"The Garden of Girls" also stood out as an exceptionally fine act, the singing of Lillian McCoy, and the Parade of Beauty being accorded round after round of applause.

Les Sechrist in the "Accordion Specialty" was, as in previous performances, an immensely popular number, his efforts on his elaborate instrument being thoroughly appreciated by all.

They really rousing number, however, was the final incident, "So Long Hong Kong" in which the whole company were applauded with the wildest of enthusiasm. It was a truly fitting close to a truly wonderful show.

MARCUS SHOW'S FAREWELLEnthusiastic Scenes At Grand Finale.*FITTING CLIMAX TO GRAND ENTERTAINMENT

After a fortnight's run in Hong Kong the Marcus Show staged their grand finale at the Queen's Theatre last night with the "Fantasies of 1934," when the whole company gave an excellent display of riotous fun and sustained animation.

There was never a dull moment, one act succeeding another without a lull, and the whole company giving of their best in their farewell performance in Hong Kong.

A large and appreciative audience applauded each "incident" in a hearty manner, and each artist received a loud and long ovation in the finale number "So Long Hong Kong" when, to the merry melody "So long, I'll see you again, see you again some day" the company passed through the orchestra stalls to the stage, to add a final triumph to a great show.

Mr. Marcus is to be complimented on the magnificent show he has brought to Hong Kong, and the exceptional ability of each and every one of his artists.

Of the "incidents" of the Fantasies, the scene "In a Cuban Garden," in which the Bounding Ali Babas displayed some of their miraculous feats, was the outstanding item on the programme.

LOOT

for the takin'. Beds an' buddin' an' coats an' toffs' shoes an' suites o' furniture—all for the liftin' of 'em. Why don't ye get yer old man to give yo a hand an' borrow a truck?"

"Ssh!" warned Martha, placing her finger to her lips. "Ssh! Phil is asleep."

"Sure yer old man's alvus asleep!" snorted the widow. "Stick a pin in his backside, missis, an' make him lep' out av bed for wance in his life. 'Make hay while the sun shines!' say I. 'Make hay while the sun shines!'"

Mrs. Clancy shuffled across to her room and Martha went back to the window. She stared out once more at the burning city. She smiled wryly with a little curl of the lip. "My God—did ye hear that?" she said as though speaking to someone. "Did ye hear that? 'Make hay while the sun shines!'"

The city was illuminated by golden light, which lit up the enfevered faces of its inhabitants and made grotesque shadows on its streets. But it was winter, and the wind ate through thin clothing, a merciless sly wind that laughed with a hollow sound at everyone's discomfort. Suddenly Martha thought, "Why shouldn't I? Just why shouldn't I?"

She watched down with new interest at the people trundling their hand-carts piled high with loot. "After all," she argued, "they're not doin' wrong. It's not really stealing. They need the things. They'd burn if they didn't take them. An' the Tans 'ud let 'em burn—only be too glad to see nothin' but ashes left!" And again the thought came, "Why shouldn't I, too?"

Suddenly she reached a decision. She ran across the landing and knocked on Mrs. Clancy's door. The old woman shouted "Come on in!" She was in bed, with her bale of silk stretched beside her. "Ye're not goin' out again?" asked Martha with a hopeful note in her voice. Now her eyes and her face glowed as had the old woman's.

"No bloomin' fear!" Mrs. Clancy retorted. "I've had enough for wan night. There'll be more burnin' to-morra night, wait till ye see? Them Tans aren't finished yet—not by a long chalk!" She gave the bale of silk an affectionate hug. "Are ye goin' out yourself now?"

"Yeh. I'll run down an' just have a look. Phil an' the kids are asleep. I won't be ten minnits. P'raps y'd be lendin' me yer shawl? Me coat's over the kids, an' it's a cold night."

"Cowld? Crikey—that wind 'ud cut the tall off a brass monkey! See if ye can't get somethin' for yourself, agrah. There's no need to come back empty handed, I'm tellin' ye! Don't be an' oiseach among all that lot!"

"Indeed an' I won't!" cried Martha with sudden determination. She took the shawl from its hook behind the door and wrapped herself into its voluminous folds. She tiptoed down the winding tenement stairs, fearful of awakening the curiosity of the rapacious old women who infested the building.

But to-night everyone was seemingly busy with his or her affairs and no one accosted her.

Outside in the street she found that it was colder than she had really thought. All the way down Patrick-street she huddled close to the walls. Flames were still shooting up from the corner of Prince-street. Fire-engines clangled and dashed around. Firemen shouted and tugged at heavy hoses. An occasional lorry of Tans slid past. The men in the lorries were enjoying the spectacle immensely.

Cash's fine emporium was almost in ruins. The walls had not yet fallen in. The counters and fittings were blazing merrily. Articles were still being salvaged. As soon as they were thrown on to the pavement they were snatched up and borne off.

At first Martha stood on the outskirts of the crowd. Then gradually she began to edge her way in and in. Her exertions, the heat of the bodies around her, and the glow of the fire warmed her. On the pavement just outside the main entrance to the shop she saw a pile of half-burned bedding.

She examined it disdainfully from a little distance away. Then a blanketed caught her eye. It was a fine heavy blanket, badly charred at one corner. It was of no use to the shopkeeper now. To take that blanket would certainly not be "stealing"—not even "lootin'," thought Martha. It was nothing better than a "throw-out." She had a mental vision of her three children shivering under their light covering. That blanket might be a "throw-out," but it was heavy and would be warm—"as warm as toast."

The crowd were now interested in a fireman who was climbing up a long ladder to the top of the blazing toy shop on the other corner of Prince's-street. Martha plucked up her courage, made a dart forward, seized the blanket, and plunged desperately into the mass of people behind.

Someone shouted. A fireman ran a little way after her, then shrugged his shoulders good-humouredly. She fought her way through the crowd. Nobody attempted to hinder her, although she imagined that everyone wished to snatch the blanket from her. In a few minutes she was clear of all the heaving bodies. Then she was in Prince's-street. She ran as fast as her legs would carry her down to Old George's-street.

There she drew up, heaving with restraint like an animal after a gallop. "Dear God!" she said aloud. "I've got it! I've got it! Oh, thank you, God! Thank you!"

She walked warily up Old George's-street with the uncertain tread of a deer who expects to scent enemies on every breath of wind. All this time she had been holding her prize in her arms as though it were a baby. In the Grand Parade she halted, rolled the blanket into a bundle, and tucked it under her shawl. She ran across the wide Parade and skirted along by the shop windows.

In seven minutes she would be at home. Dear Heaven—what a thought! Henceforth her children would sleep in comfort. It was a big blanket. She would double it. On the bitterest night they would not feel the cold. In summer she could pawn it. She was always pawning things. Long ago she had pawned her wedding ring and had substituted a sixpenny one to keep people from talking. But it was good to have things even if only to be able to pawn them when the pinch came. And again she cried from the very bottom of her heart, "Oh, thank you, God! Thank you!"

Just as she reached the Queen's Old Castle a lorry dashed round from Castle-street. Her heart leaped within. She almost fainted away with terror. She was certain that they would stop her and snatched away her prize. Then she lost her presence of mind. She began to run back towards the corner of Washington-street, hoping that the lorry would swerve into Patrick-street and leave her in peace.

The men in the lorry heard the sound of running feet. They saw a shadow crouching down by the shop windows. The young officer had a sudden vision of a bomb landing in their midst. "Halt!" he like that for, anyway?"

The officer looked at the blanket and at the bleeding woman on the flagstones. He said nothing. He took a corner of the blanket in each hand and spread it carefully over the body. Then he swung back towards the lorry, followed by the private. They drove off into the night.

GRIM HUNT FOR MURDERER

Police Collect 2,600 Finger-Prints.

WHOLE VILLAGE INSPECTED

Prague. The finger-prints of every man within a radius of 12 miles of Kosova Pastele, a village in Slovakia, were taken by the police in an effort to trace a murderer.

Altogether, 2,600 people between the ages of 14 and 60 were examined in six weeks.

Among them was 26-year-old Vasil Losak, the son of a wealthy miller, whose finger-prints corresponded with those on a window of the victim's house—the only clue the police had.

He was arrested and sentenced to 15 years' simple imprisonment.

It was stated that he attacked the murdered man, an innkeeper, and his wife with a hammer as they lay in bed. He then stole 26 cigarettes and five shillings.

He said he wanted the money for a spree.

After the trial the innkeeper's wife died of her wounds, and the sentence on Losak was increased to 13 years' hard labour.—Reuter.

FLOWERS REUNITE COUPLE.Hungarian Recognises His Home.

Budapest.

After spending 19 years in prison in Soviet Russia, Janos Balog, a Hungarian farmer, has returned to Belenyes-Ujhak, his native village.

When he reached the village he scarcely recognised it, so many changes had occurred in his absence. He wandered through the streets, looking for his wife—but he could not find the house where they had lived.

Then, in a window-box, he saw some flowers he had given her on their wedding day. He knocked on the door. His wife opened it. Recognition was instant, and there was a joyful reunion.—Reuter.

NAZIS PROMOTE TIDY STREETS

Berlin.

Orders that police shall keep stricter watch than hitherto on people who drop banana skins and pieces of paper in the parks have been issued here.

At present offenders can be fined a shilling on the spot—but the police have hitherto often shown leniency.—Reuter.

London. Special vans designed to carry standard signs officially recognised by the Ministry of Transport and also equipped to render assistance to motorists who may be in difficulties either through accident or breakdown, have been placed on the road by the R.A.C.

AIDING MOTORISTS IN BRITAIN

London.

The shadow ran on and on, crouching almost to the ground. A sharp order rang out. Rifle snapped. The shadow ceased its movement, swayed, fell forward without a sound. The lorry drew up with a long-drawn squeal.

The young officer and a private sprang down and walked across the wide pavement. They bent over the still figure and saw that it was a woman clutching something in her arms. The officer opened her shawl and drew out a bundle. He unrolled it and found it to be a blanket with a charred end.

The private took off his cap, not in respect for the dead, but to scratch his head. "Blimey!" he ejaculated. "A blindin' woman! Blimey! I could've swore it was a Skinner!" What did she run like that for, anyway?"

The officer looked at the blanket and at the bleeding woman on the flagstones. He said nothing. He took a corner of the blanket in each hand and spread it carefully over the body. Then he swung back towards the lorry, followed by the private. They drove off into the night.

CENTENARY AIR RACE

Huge Entry List For £10,000 Prize.

MOLLISONS AND KINGSFORD SMITH TO COMPETE

At least 25 planes will halt at Singapore in October, during the course of the greatest aeroplane race in the world, the contest for a prize of £10,000 offered by Sir Macpherson Robertson, a Melbourne business magnate, for a flight from England to Australia.

So large is the entry for this competition that the Melbourne Centenary Council are finding it most difficult to provide a suitable landing ground for these planes and it is probable that one of the several race course grounds near Melbourne will have to be requisitioned for the landing of competitors.

This air race which is one of the main features of the Melbourne Centenary celebrations has attracted world-renowned flyers from England, Australia, Italy, France, Germany and America.

Miss Amy Johnson will be a competitor to her equally famous husband, Mr. Jim Mollison, while Sir Kingsford Smith, who at present holds the record from Australia to England, has also entered a plane.

The Race is being held in conjunction with the celebrations of Melbourne's 100th birthday as the capital city of Victoria.

Don't Be A Slave To A System.

(By LADY RHODES.)

A recent experience of playing among a very strict set of "Cultivators" has confirmed me in the belief that it is a mistake to adhere too rigidly to that system or, indeed, to any other. It often pays to make a departure. Here is a case in point.

The hands were:—

North:—
S.—A J 4
H.—A Q
D.—Q J 10 6
C.—Q 7 5 4West:—
S.—8 7 3 2
H.—10 3
D.—8 5 4 3
C.—10 9 3East:—
S.—Q 10 9
H.—K J 9 6 5 4
D.—K 7
C.—A 8South:—
S.—K 6 5
H.—9 8 2
D.—A 9 2
C.—K J 6 2

Neither side was vulnerable, and the bidding was:—

North, 1 No Trump. North, No Bid.

East, 2 Hearts.

South, No Bid.

West, No Bid.

South opened with the Ace of Diamonds, and East was two down, making four tricks in Hearts, the King of Diamonds and the Ace of Clubs. Though North and South seemed rather pleased, it was really a cheap save. South "did not like to bid 3 Clubs on so poor a suit" so, having no Heart guard, she passed. Had she bid 3 Clubs, North would have bid 3 No Trumps, and the contract would have been made with ease.

Take Reasonable Risks.

It is true that had East held only 6 Hearts, and if the King of Diamonds had been in West's hand, the contract would have been defeated, but it is impossible to win at bridge without taking reasonable risks.

With such a hand as South's, any bid over a partner's 1 No Trump is better than a pass. North can hardly be blamed, after her partner's silence, for not bidding 2 No Trumps; if South had held little or nothing, the hand would have been awkward to play and might have proved expensive.

Another hand which occurred shortly afterwards illustrates the same point: North and South were vulnerable.

North held

S.—8 2
H.—A Q 8 5 4
D.—K 6
C.—K Q 5 2

South held

S.—10 3
H.—10 9 8
D.—A J 4 3
C.—A 9 8 6

North bid 1 Heart, East 2 Spades, South passed, and so did West. North's position was difficult. Her Hearts were scarcely strong enough to rebid to 3, while 3 Clubs or an informative double might lead to trouble. She therefore passed, and East, who held 6 Spades to the King, Queen, Jack, and the King of Hearts, was only one down.

Here again South was at fault. She did not fancy 3 Diamonds and lacked the conventional "adequate trump support." She therefore passed, the worst possible bid on her hand. Had she plucked up courage and said 3 Hearts, North would certainly have bid four.

The game can be made on the combined hands, unless East holds both the King and Knave of Hearts—not a bad risk, as the odds are three to one against that distribution.

An Advisable Opening.

Even the rule that requires 2½ tricks for an opening suit bid can be neglected on occasions. With a hand of strong distributional strength, such as:

S.—A Q 8 6 2 D.—7 2
H.—A 10 9 8 4 C.—10

H.—A J 8 6 8 C.—J

it is advisable to open with one Spade. Do not, however, open

PURCHASED.

MORGENTHAU'S PLAN

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Teleglobe
Message, Ordinance, 1934. Received
June 22, 11.20 p.m.)

Washington, Yesterday. It is semi-officially estimated that the United States has purchased 100,000,000 ounces of silver for the Administration's rehabilitation of silver.

Through the stabilisation fund, the Treasury Secretary, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, is mapping plans to purchase nearly 1,300,000,000 ounces of additional silver to carry out the Silver Act's provisions.

Government officials are most hopeful that a rise in silver prices will stimulate commodities.

The Bureau of engraving and printing will shortly begin to print U.S.$1,000,000 worth of new silver currency in order to stimulate its use. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

the close of play he was undefeated with 103, scored out of 192 in 180 minutes, while McCabe had scored 24.

Brown, who has hit 14 boundaries, exploited the hook shot with marked success, while his leg shots and driving found many gaps in the well-placed England field. He was given a rousing ovation when he returned to the pavilion.

Thus at the conclusion of the day's play, Australia, with 8 wickets in hand, were only 248 runs in arrears. — Reuter.

SECOND CENTURY

Maurice Leyland's century was his second three-figure Test century against the Australians, his previous century being a knock of 187 at Melbourne in his Test debut in the 1928-29 series.

Ames had the distinction of scoring his first century in a Test, his previous best being 42, not out in the Australian series.

Ames' form this season has been particularly good, especially when his recent operation for appendicitis is taken into consideration.

His wicket keeping in the first Test at Trent Bridge was one of the features of the match, the amazing catch with which he secured the wicket of W. A. Brown, after he had scored 73, being particularly noteworthy.

Neither Ames nor Leyland met with success in the first Test, Ames being dismissed for 7 and 12, and Leyland for 6 and 18.

Leyland's 18 in the second innings, however, was the result of a dogged stand in which he almost thwarted Woodfull's plans for victory. — Brown's CENTURY.

Joined by McCabe, Brown reached three figures in a Test for the first time in his short career.

MARCUS SHOW LEAVES

Performing In Canton
To-night.

CHINESE GIRLS TO JOIN COMPANY

The Greater Marcus Show leaves to-day for Canton, after a far more successful run in Hong Kong than was anticipated by Mr. A. B. Marcus.

After 11 days in Canton the company will return here, and ship for Manila on the s.s. President Coolidge, which sails on July 6.

One of the schemes which has appealed to Mr. Marcus is the inclusion in the show of a Chinese Act, and, with this in mind, he was advertised for 12 Chinese girls to travel with the show on its world tour. To date 30 applications have been received, but a final decision will not be made until the show returns from Canton, where it is possible that other girls will be interviewed.

Expectations have been more fulfilled here, and interest in the show has continued throughout. The attendance last night was the second largest record, the largest being on the opening night.

HOUSE BOOKED UP

The show opens in Canton tonight at the Grand Theatre, a wireless have been received that the house is already fully booked.

The whole of the Marcus troupe have been thrilled with Hong Kong, as Mr. Marcus puts it. "The are never tired of crossing the ferry and looking at it, or of travelling to Repulse Bay to swim."

Mr. Marcus, of course, is an old hand here, he managed the Star Theatre in Kowloon 10 years ago, and took the first foreign show to Canton about 20 years ago.

There is a possibility that the Marcus Show will give one or two performances here when passing through en route for Manila.

After Manila, the show will proceed to Singapore and India. It is due to open in Rangoon on October 1.

To-day the Queen's Theatre will revert back to their usual high-class films. Robert Montgomery and Norma Shearer are now appearing in "Rhapsody," the serial story of which was published early this month in the China Mail.
